Aboriginal Education Enhancement Agreement

Marion Wright, Kwakiutl Chief Councilor

The Aboriginal Education Enhancement Agreement has included community dialogue and identified goals. The Ministry of Education and School District will work closely with the communities. We have always said in the past that the school system has failed our children. That is the history and with the Enhancement Agreement we will be looking at the future...Goal one is about values. The big house reflects the values of our people. The school environment: books, classroom organization, and teachers have values which may not reflect the First Nation community. This is where our children have difficulties. It is not the failure of a child; but the failure of a system. The ministry and school district have a big job ahead of them. In order to create a sense of belonging for the First Nation students, the very values embedded in the school system must be examined. This is going to be difficult as they are so ingrained in the system and hard to change. When the public education system begins to understand in a positive way the cultural differences between non-native and native then education will be beneficial and a better experience for our children. I know it is a big task, but with the Aboriginal Education Enhancement Agreement this will be achieved.

Goal two is about graduating. These young children will be graduating. When they graduate they will make a symbolic walk. It means a lot. They have overcome great obstacles and our communities must do everything we can to help our children make that symbolic walk. A slogan our children chose at grad night ‘tomorrow begins tonight’ and how true for grads.

Goal three is about Aboriginal curriculum. The goal increases respect for Aboriginal culture, values history and increase sense of belonging, which goes back to the values. When we build education around the enormously rich culture; we begin to see the values and beliefs that are most important to us. This validates a culture and validates what is most important to us.

Hereditary Chief Tony Hunt

Welcome chiefs, elders, Kwakiutl, other chiefs, children—our future generations. We built this house a long time ago to carry on our tradition and in the big house we respect. I like to think anything we do to further education is the most important thing we do to further knowledge. In a modern day we need tradition and respect.

Dennis Umpleby, FNEC Chair – Our community journey goes back about three years, our first meeting was in a room with no window and adversarial, but after the third meeting we all realized we were there for the children. I think once everyone realize we wanted the same thing it was easier...June 2003 to June 2005, it took two years, but we have the Aboriginal Education Enhancement Agreement and it was done in collaboration with the First Nation communities.

Wendi Dunlop, CUPE
All CUPE members applaud the commitment for all our children that has our communities working together strengthens our communities and gives us a vision for the future.

Basil Ambers, Elder
I can’t think of anything more sacred then to come here and sign this agreement for our children. That to us is very important...education is the backbone of our community. We hope this is a new start. Our elders recognize that and our chiefs have worked hard...we recognize our children need a better education and they need to be better armed in order to live in today’s environment.

Trish Rosborough, Ministry of Education Aboriginal Education Branch
It is a privilege and an honour to be here today to sign this agreement. The ministry pays attention, even though we are far away, we pay attention to what is going on in the school district and in the province. We know where the work is happening. We know what is going on and we want to support that work especially where kids know who they are.
